

STREET PREACHERS: A Signpost To An Indifferent Age

WITHIN A CULTURE WHERE MOST people have not received Jesus, nor do they expose themselves to his teachings inside or outside the denominations, the street preacher is vital for keeping the person and message of Jesus alive to the masses.

The street preacher is the voice in the wilderness, calling out to the masses, pleading with them to consider their eternal destination. Pleading with them to repent from their sins and live in obedience to God. In a world where the majority no longer enters a Christian fellowship, the street preacher stands as a living signpost, a witness, that Jesus is still relevant to our present age and the reality of hell is still a present danger.

Street preachers do not go in their own authority, but in obedience to Jesus' command to "go into all the world" to take the good news he declared to all—or in this case, the corners of the streets and wherever people are. They challenge a person's indifference urging all to remember that Jesus is still alive. His message is still relevant. Jesus is still the only way to escape the hell that all are born to enter unless they repent and redirect their lives toward God's eternal kingdom.

The street preacher is not merely a voice crying out; they are the salt and light of their communities. They remind us that the need for Jesus is not a leftover from the past but a pressing reality of the present, offering a path to transformation and hope for all who are willing to hear and heed their call.

Today the light and salt of the street preacher is needed more than ever as the world continues its decline into darkness and moral and spiritual corruption. The world cries out for hope, while Jesus pleads, "The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few; Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth laborers into his harvest." (Matthew 9:37-38). Jesus is pleading for you to answer that prayer, to be not just hearers, but doers also.

The hour is near, the darkness spreads
The gospel's light seems nearly dead
Where are those covered by the crimson flow?
Where are those Christ commands to go?
